

Hard to Believe -- Ragging Anthem

Continuing its seven year long battle, CURE has done another first: a song and video on ragging. Being the first organization to take a stand against ragging, CURE has done several campaigns including newsletters, slogan stickers, announcing the No Ragging Day and working as a consultant to the Raghavan Committee of the Govt. of India.

We present the latest addition, a song and video on ragging, which will take the campaign against ragging to a new dimension.

Lyrics

Ever since I gained my wisdom,
My dream has been my freedom.
Along with years of hard work,
I went through seas of pain.

New people I would meet,
But no teachers I would greet.
Few believe what I say,
But I'm here to stay.

A new world awaits me,
My dreams call for me,
With pride I embark on my way...

Its the song of my life,
Some happiness and strife,
Is this all reality?
Oh, Its hard to believe...
Oh, Its hard to believe...
Oh, Its hard to believe.

My head fought with my heart,
For a man, was it just a start?
Beaten up in a fearful game,
Lost my clothes, what a shame.

It's okay, many thought,
But my honor did depart.
A year above, all in name,
To guide me through, as they claim.

Mirrors reflected a slave,
Crystal balls, an open grave.
Couldn't gear with life's ways,
My dreams began to fade...
My dreams began to fade.

A new world awaits me,
My dreams call for me,
With pride I embark on my way.

Its the song of my life,
Some happiness and strife.
Is this all reality?
Oh, Its hard to believe ...

Oh, Its hard to believe.

Its the time of the year, again,
Revenge I could seek, and gain.
But customs have to change,
Coz I...
Feel the pain...
Yes I can feel the pain...
Yes I can feel the pain.
